II. Health Care

I. General information

There is no public health insurance in Afghanistan, however there are a few private insurance companies, but their fees are high and the majority of the local people cannot afford to pay them. The governmental public hospitals are offering free treatment services, but sometimes there might be lack of medicines, therefore patients are referred to private medical stores to purchase medicines. The checkup, examination and laboratory services are free in these hospitals.

There is a limited number of state owned hospitals in Afghanistan, which provide medical services free of charges. However, the costs of medicines are different to the local market. In large cities like Kabul, Jalalabad, Mazar-e-Sharif, Herat and Kandahar some private medical centers also exist. The costs for medical services and medication in these private centers vary.

Generally, there is no specific procedure. Each national citizen is eligible to medical treatment and medication. Physically and mentally disabled persons, as well as victims of abuses must ensure strong family and community support.

2. Medical treatment and medication

Medical facilities and doctors:

Medical assistance is widely unavailable for the treatment of a variety of diseases and afflictions. Surgical operations can only be handled in selected places, which generally lack adequate equipment and personnel.

Procedure of admission:

The returnee can simply go to any hospital in Afghanistan with his national ID (Tazkira), where he/she gets registered and referred to the relevant medical doctor for checkup/examination. If the illness is serious and surgery is needed, the hospital creates a file for the patient in order to make a bed available.

Availability and costs of medication:

Any kind of medication is available on the markets in Afghanistan now, but the costs vary based on quality, company names and manufacturers.

III. Labor Market and Employment

I. General information

Labour Force:

In general, the country's economy depends on international assistance from donors since 2002. Currently, Afghanistan is being faced with a economic crises due to the decrease of funding from international donors since 2014. Because of the uncertain situation in the country, companies and investors are more reluctant to invest in Afghanistan. The supply for employment exceeds the demand. The employment rate declines.

The total labour force in Afghanistan last measured in 2014, was 8,334,374 according to the World Bank. Total labor force comprises people aged 15 and older who meet the International Labor Organization definition of the economically active population.

Agriculture is the largest sector of employment in Afghanistan. Workers employed in the agriculture sector represent 60 percent of total employment, meaning that three out of five workers have their main source of income in farm related activities. This share is of course higher in rural areas, where employment in agriculture is almost 70 percent.

The non-farm sector is dominated by employment in family-based, small-scale trade activities. Retail trade, with petty trade and shop-keeping activities, represents the main source of employment in the non-farm sector, followed by services and construction that benefited enormously from the massive inflow of aid over the past ten years.

The public sector is another key source of employment opportunities in urban areas, where it accounts for about 158,000 jobs, 18.80% of which are located in Kabul province.

The manufacturing sector only plays a small role, accounting for only 5.0% of total employment nationwide.

Female labuor force in Afghanistan was 16.05% according to the World Bank in 2014

VI. Educational System

I. General Information

Two education systems exist parallel to each other in Afghanistan. Religious education is the responsibility of clerics at mosques, while the government provides free academic education at state schools. From age 7 to age 13 pupils attend primary schools where they learn the basics of reading, writing, arithmetic, and their national culture.

Three years of middle school follow where academic-style education continues. Students must pass an examination at the end of the phase if they wish to study further on. At secondary school, students have a choice to either continue an academic path for 3 years that could perhaps lead to university. Or studying subjects such as applied agriculture, aeronautics, arts, commerce, and teacher training instead. Both programs culminate in a “Baccaluria” examination.

Educational Level	Age
Child care / nursery school	0,5 – 3
Kindergarten	3 – 6
Primary Level
Elementary School	6 – 10
Secondary Level
Middle School	10 – 15
High School	15 – 19

Vocational Education:

Formal educational institutions include vocational/technical high schools, and tertiary institutions such as the Kabul Polytechnic Institute. Numerous institutions, under the overall guidance of the Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs, offer training courses. The Ministry of Education also has a department of vocational education, handling 41 schools, which provide assistance in this respect. Activities generally focus on mechanics, carpentry, plumbing, carpet weaving, metal-works, hairdressing, tailoring and office management.

Child Care:

There are some kindergarten centres financed and administered by the public entities. They provide facilities to their staff members' children for free.

Approval and verification of foreign diplomas:

At the first stage, the documents e.g. certificates, diploma or degree should be sent to the ministry of foreign affairs. The ministry will accept these documents for verification on the condition that they already have been attested by the ministry of foreign affairs of the issuing country.

Afterwards the documents will be referred to the ministry of higher education for the record. At the final stage the original copies verified by the ministry will be given to the holder of the documents.

VII. Concrete Support for Returnees

I. Reintegration assistance programs

Except from IOM, no other offices provide reintegration assistance in Afghanistan.

2. Support to start income generating activities

Following a long period with limited banking service, the formal financial sector in Afghanistan is adding commercial banks and services rapidly, while the Central Bank (Da Afghanistan Bank) still offers some commercial banking functions. These activities are being phased out as the commercial sector adds capacity.

Setting up a bank account is very easy in Afghanistan. The bank may ask you for the following: Tazkira (ID or Passport); 2 passport size photos; and AFA 1,000 to 5,000 as an initial deposit for the bank account.

To date more than a dozen commercial banks have become active in the country:

Afghanistan International Bank, Azizi Bank, Arian Bank, Alfalah Bank Ltd., Bank-E-Millie Afghan, BRAC Afghanistan Bank, Development Bank of Afghanistan, Export Promotion Bank, Habib Bank of Pakistan, Kabul Bank, National Bank of Pakistan, Pashtany Bank, Punjab National Bank - India, The First Microfinance Bank, Ghazanfar Bank, Maiwand Bank, Bakhtar Bank.

Following services are currently available:

- International funds Transfer via SWIFT (Society For World Wide Interbank Funds Transfer)
- Domestic Funds Transfers within Afghanistan
- Credit Products
- Letters of Credit and other trade Services
- Savinf and Current accounts

International funds Transfer via SWIFT have been available through the Central Bank since July 2003. Commercial banks are currently offering international funds transfers, some using their own facilities and others using the Central Banks capabilities. The Central Bank is able to meet the demands of the banking sector for cash in the official domestic currency (the Afghani) and US Dollar.

To remit money to Afghanistan, individuals and business entities need to have an account with a bank in Afghanistan. The Central Bank intends to move out of commercial banking operations, as commercial banks expand operations around the country. The Central Bank can also provide transfers and other banking services in provinces throughout Afghanistan. Money transfer mechanisms such as Western Union are also widely used in Afghanistan. A growing number of institutions provide micro finance services in Afghanistan.

Eligibility criteria tend to vary, though most centre on applicants' vulnerability and the potential sustainability of their projects. Returnees and women, in particular, are regularly assisted with micro finance schemes. Note however that interest rates are generally quite high.
